Nagasaki University Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences
Doctoral Course (Four Years)
Application Information

1. Departments and numbers of accepted students

Department		Number of applicants being accepted for Autumn 2027	Note
Department of Medical and Dental Sciences		4	The number includes Nagasaki University Post Graduate Students. In case there will be vacancies in Spring, the number will be added. In case there will be vacancies this period, no additional recruitment will be conducted.
Department of Infection Research	Program for Nurturing Global Leaders in Tropical and Emerging Communicable Diseases	2
	Standard course	2
Department of Life Sciences and Radiation Research		1
Division of Advanced Preventive Medical Sciences		1

※ Division of Advanced Preventive Medical Sciences is a cooperative major (Doctoral Course) consisting of curriculum that Nagasaki University, Chiba University and Kanazawa University jointly provide. Those who complete this course will be granted doctoral degree in the joint name of these three universities.

※ Students who will have completed master courses at Nagasaki University by September 2027 and wish to progress to Nagasaki University Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences (Doctoral Course) should apply using "Application Information for Nagasaki University Post Graduate Students" from page 12.

2. Qualifications for application

Persons who meet the qualifications in any one of the following categories may apply for admission. Non-standard applicants working in Japan must be employed at the time of entrance. (1) Examination schedule and venue

Date and time: Tuesday, July 13, 2027

Venue:

① Examination for Standard, and Non-standard applicants, and international students living in Japan: Nagasaki University School of Medicine

② Examination for International students living outside Japan: Examination will be conducted by using web conference system 'Zoom'

※If standard or non-standard applicants living outside Japan wish to take an online examination, please contact to the Student Affairs Division.

(2) Examination procedure

Students will be selected based on their submitted documents and testing results. The minimum score for entrance is 60% and successful applicants will be determined in order of highest overall score. The applicants applying for two different research departments will be screened for their 1st choice based on the criteria for the 1st choice as below. If they are rejected, they will be screened based on the criteria for their 2nd choice. The applicants must take all the required academic testing for each department they are applying for. If they miss any of the required tests for the departments they are applying for, they will be rejected.

<Score allocation>

Department	*Screening of submitted documents	Academic testing I	Academic testing II	Total
Department of Medical and Dental Sciences Department of Infection Research (Standard course) Department of Life Sciences and Radiation Research	100	300		400
Department of Infection Research (Program for Nurturing Global Leaders in Tropical and Emerging Communicable Diseases)	100	300	100	500
Division of Advanced Preventive Medical Sciences	100	300	100	500

A) The screening will be based on the "undergraduate and graduate academic transcripts" and the "statement of reasons and goals for research".

(3) Required fees for enrollment procedures

Admission fee: 282,000 yen

Required to be transferred as indicated in the Enrollment Procedures Handbook during the enrollment procedure period as above. Admission fee is non-refundable.

(Notes)

1. Tuition fee for 2026: 535,800 yen annually (267,900 yen per semester)
2. The period of tuition fee payment is in April and October.
3. If the amount of tuition fee is revised during the registration period, the revised amount will apply.
4. There is the system of admission fee and tuition fee exemption and payment postponement in Nagasaki University. For more details, please confirm it in the Enrollment Procedures Handbook.
5. Admission and tuition fees are not required for international students supported by Japanese government (Monbukagakusho: MEXT) scholarships.

10. Additional admission and recruitment

If vacancies occur in the admission capacity due to withdrawal or other reasons, additional acceptance notifications may be made by telephone on or after Friday, August 27, 2027. Therefore, even if you were initially unsuccessful, please ensure you can be contacted promptly and are prepared to respond regarding your intention to enroll.

Please note that if we are unable to reach you, you will lose your eligibility for additional acceptance. Furthermore, we will not respond to inquiries made by telephone etc.

11. Personal Data Protection Policy

(1) Personal information provided in the application package will only be used for the selection process. The personal information of the successful applicants will be used in the admission process; thus, enrolled students' personal information will be used for registration.

(2) Results of the entrance examination and other personal information in the application package will be used in the screening process for the scholarship, admission fee exemptions, tuition waivers, etc.

(3) Personal information provided in the application package and entrance examination may be used for statistical surveys and research regarding admissions at the university.

(4) Personal information provided in the application package and entrance examination, unless specified in the Act on the Protection of Personal Information will not be distributed to third parties or used for purposes other than those mentioned above.

12. Consultation for Applicants with Disabilities

Nagasaki University has Support Center for students and applicants with disabilities.

Applicants with disabilities that would require specific arrangements for the examination or for learning are required to contact Student Affairs Division before submitting the application. Applicants will never be negatively treated in the screening process by the results of an advance consultation. Applicants may be required to submit documents describing detail of arrangement. Without consultation beforehand, the applicants may not be allowed to ask for arrangement.

13. Security Export Control

Nagasaki University regulates the export of goods and provision of technology subject to safety concerns, in accordance with the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Act, so that the research and education for non-Japanese students do not impede international peace and safety; accordingly, prospective students should keep in mind that they may be requested to change the contents of research and education. For further inquiries, consult Student Affairs Division.

14. Notes and Cautions

(1) Incomplete or erroneous application documents will not be accepted.

(2) Any corrections will not be accepted in application documents after their submission.

(3) Submitted application documents are non-refundable with no exception.

(4) If any falsification, alteration, rewriting, or unauthorized use of an examination admission ticket or any other document used by the University in the admissions process, including photographs and other recorded information, is discovered, such conduct may be treated as misconduct, and the applicant's eligibility to take the examination or admission may be revoked. In addition, if the University determines that such conduct may violate applicable laws or regulations, the matter may be referred to the relevant authorities. The same measures may be taken even if such conduct is discovered after enrollment, and the applicant's admission may be revoked.

(2) Results of the entrance examination and other personal information in the application package will be used in the screening process for the scholarship, admission fee exemptions, tuition waivers, etc.

(3) Personal information provided in the application package and entrance examination may be used for statistical surveys and research regarding admissions at the university.

(4) Personal information provided in the application package and entrance examination, unless specified in the Act on the Protection of Personal Information will not be distributed to third parties or used for purposes other than those mentioned above.

9. Consultation for Applicants with Disabilities

Nagasaki University has Support Center for students and applicants with disabilities.

Applicants with disabilities that would require specific arrangements for the examination or for learning are required to contact Student Affairs Division before submitting the application. Applicants will never be negatively treated in the screening process by the results of an advance consultation. Applicants may be required to submit documents describing detail of arrangement. Without consultation beforehand, the applicants may not be allowed to ask for arrangement.

10. Security Export Control

Nagasaki University regulates the export of goods and provision of technology subject to safety concerns, in accordance with the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Act, so that the research and education for non-Japanese students do not impede international peace and safety; accordingly, prospective students should keep in mind that they may be requested to change the contents of research and education. For further inquiries, consult Student Affairs Division.

11. Notes and Cautions

(1) Incomplete or erroneous application documents will not be accepted.
(2) Any corrections will not be accepted in application documents after their submission.
(3) Submitted application documents are non-refundable with no exception.
(4) If any falsification, alteration, rewriting, or unauthorized use of an examination admission ticket or any other document used by the University in the admissions process, including photographs and other recorded information, is discovered, such conduct may be treated as misconduct, and the applicant's eligibility to take the examination or admission may be revoked. In addition, if the University determines that such conduct may violate applicable laws or regulations, the matter may be referred to the relevant authorities. The same measures may be taken even if such conduct is discovered after enrollment, and the applicant's admission may be revoked.
